Classroom Offers Learning Experiences

Classroom situations were transformed into learning experiences in the school year 1977-78. Fifteen teachers gave their patience and time outside the classroom to make their area an interesting and knowledgeable experience. As a result many students' minds were opened, and a desire to learn was instilled. DHS offered a well-rounded educational program that included vocational training.

DHS Students Learn By Doing

That one learns by doing is trite but nonetheless true. The classroom offered a setting for DHS students to encounter a number of learning experiences. From learning to weld in shop class to polishing a geometric proof in math class, students were eager to make discoveries of their own. While many students and teachers alike agree that lecturing and notetaking are good ways to impart new information, the same people welcome active participation in the class. Since students spent five full hours per week in each class, "doing" activities served to break a sometimes monotonous routine. During the year students looked forward to lessons that included lab experiments, field trips, discussion groups, and student-oriented projects. Students often learned more in such experiences, and the hour passed much more quickly.

High School Courses Give Students Practical Training

A geometric proof. A field trip. An ag project. A bookkeeping practice set. During the year such activities supplemented class lectures to give practical training to DeLeon students. Although few students select a vocation while they are in high school, a variety of career-related courses and projects supply information that may be beneficial to students. Experience in mathematics, composition, accounting, science, home economics, and agriculture lend a practicality to any educational training program, for they teach students simple procedures that will be valuable in any career they choose.

Bearcats Clench Fifth Consecutive District Title

The Bearcats clenched their fifth consecutive district championship this year. They opened their season with an important win over long-time rival Gorman, which was their first goal for the year. The Bearcats had only three losses this year, two of which were to "AA" schools, Comanche and Cisco. The Bearcats won all their district games except Bangs whom they tied. Their third loss came in the Bi-District game at San Angelo where Wall, a strong team, defeated the Bearcats 21-6.

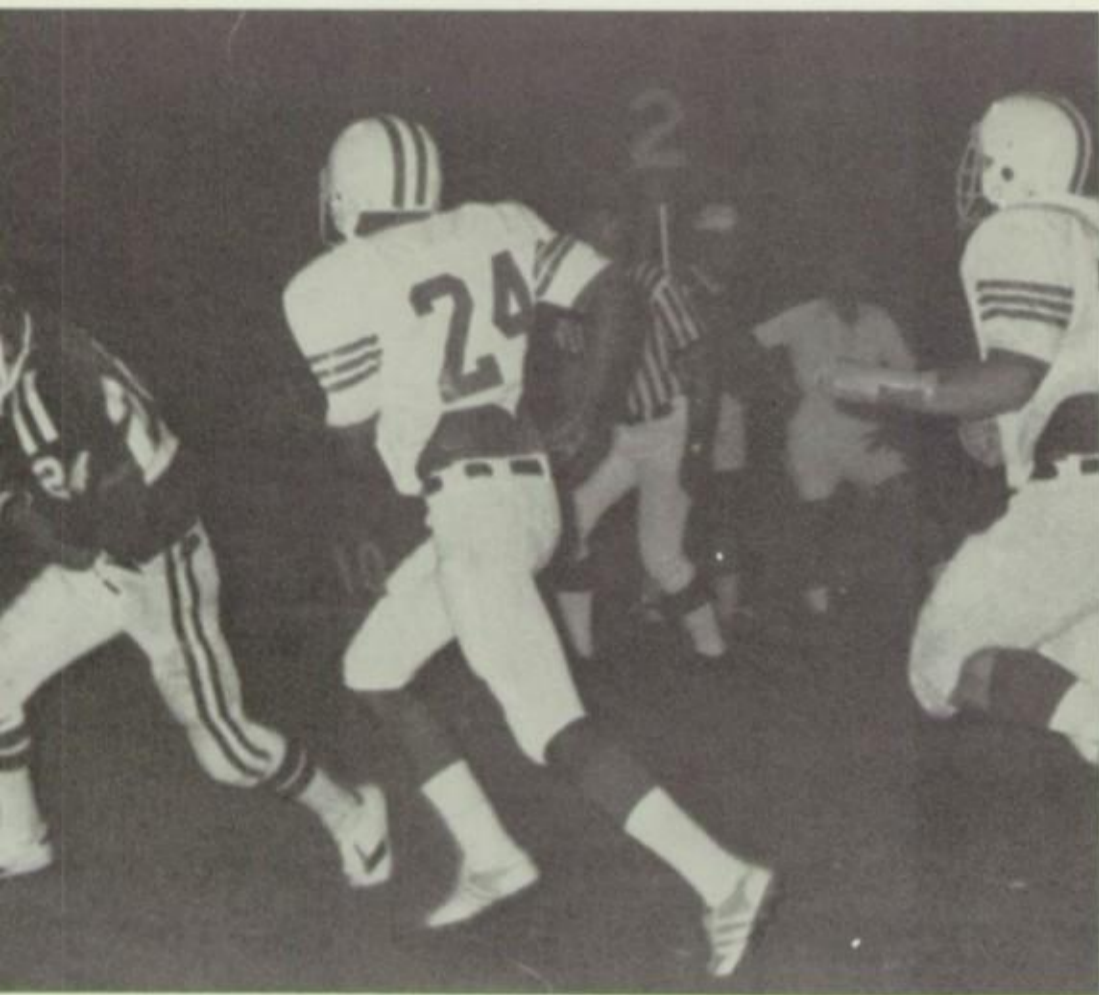

Seven players were elected to the All-District Team, four offense and three defense.

WE'RE GETTING READY FOR YOUR GENERATION.

In the years ahead you'll need more electricity than you're using right now because there's a lot to be done. We will have new jobs, more efficient homemaking, health care and cleaning up the environment. Right now Texas Electric is building new lignite coal and nuclear-fueled power plants that will help make sure you have the electricity you're going to need.
